PREFACE

This Catalogue covers the Library relating to the Literature of the Law, brought together by my Husband, the late John V. L. Pruyn of Albany, Chancellor of the University of the State of New York.

The collecting of these volumes was one of the recreations of a useful life. It afforded unfailing enjoyment through many years of active professional work, and completed, it brought companionship in his later days.

Early in his legal career, Mr. Pruyn set aside certain securities, the principal and increase of which kept constantly invested, provided a fund for the indulgence of this literary taste. Many publications which it is now difficult or impossible to find, were thus preserved.

This volume sets down in order the result of his forethought and discriminating judgment.

The compilation of the Catalogue, under my direction, has been a labor of love and I trust to those to whom it may come, it will be an added testimonial to the wisdom of him whose name the collection bears.

ANNA PARKER PRUYN.
